

Our Lady of Grace loses parishioner

I am truly appalled by the (really) dismissal of Fr. Joe.

They left him no alternative.

They never would have allowed him to return to Our Lady of Grace.

With that being said, Our Lady of Grace has lost several loyal parishioners, myself being one.

I returned to the church because of a new light being Fr. Joe. No old school preaching, or priests so boring most would attend church and nap. Fr. Joe was an inspiration. The children loved him. He had a unique way of delivering the message and it was absorbed.

Isn't that what the church wants, the messages to be taken in, remembered, absorbed?

Well, it is a sad, sad day for this parish. I will not return.

I am very happy to say that someone will be a very lucky lady to be able to marry Joe. He is a very wonderful man.

I hope the community can recover.

I had the privilege of communicating with Fr. Joe and he truly inspired me and helped me heal the way I was feeling about past life experiences. I know he will always have the gift of communication and I hope he marries and blesses the world with his offspring, which I am confident will be wonderful people, as is he.
