

Aurora needs new high school, but not at Williams? expense

(Re: Parents urge board to ?rebuild trust? and reconsider new high school, March 2)

I had the pleasure of sitting on a committee of parents along with Minister Chris Ballard in the last major accommodation review back in the early 2000s.

I was also a supporter of the Keep Dr. G.W. Williams camp when the board considered closing Williams.

The northeast deserves a new high school but not at the expense of residents in the southwest.

Southwest Aurora is already neglected from a town facilities perspective so losing Williams would be unacceptable. Especially given the intensification plans along Yonge Street, this school will be in high demand going forward.
