

On municipal surveys and riding splits

(Re: Machell's Corners & Inside Aurora, March 5, Pages 4 and 5)

Too bad there wasn't enough space on the "Life Cycle..." to drill down to the Open & Transparent Game when poorly attended Public Consultations or poorly responded to Town of Aurora online surveys are referenced in percentages and not in actual numbers. (Take note, The Auroran)

As for the Angst Beginning, I thought it was well said. I have to agree with the 2 voices, 4 ears.... It's also an indication of Aurora's prominence between/among other communities that for the first time it will be required to lead two ridings in selecting representatives.

However, there'll be a cataclysm of biblical proportions if southbound Yonge Street at Wellington gets a left turn lane and northbound doesn't!
