

Reader not impressed by election ad

When I flipped through the Auroran and saw John Gallo's advertisement my first thought was impressive with so many backyard gatherings, and such a lovely smile on his face.

However, it dawned on me very quickly that the pictures were being duplicated. Not only are there exact duplicates of pictures but on closer examination it became quite obvious that the backyard pictures appear to be the same backyard from different angles.

We have been told by John Gallo that he has had hundreds of backyard gatherings to be the voice of the people. This advertisement implies lots of backyards and is very misleading. As well, John Gallo advocates that the voice of Aurorans need to be heard. Are not our elected officials, including John Gallo, currently representing Aurorans? Where has John Gallo's voice been for the last six years?

Juanita Marks

Aurora