

Where were you when the lights went out?

(Re: A Lack of Resilience, January 9, 2014)

The length of outage for us ? 29 hours ? took us by surprise and caused us to have some food spoilage. Writer Shelley Wister's ideas on how to avoid food spoilage were great. There was some fun during the aftermath. When I placed a tin pie plate behind a candle to create more light, my wife one-upped me by placing a candle in a large tin turkey basing pan. Our worst dilemma was what to do without a TV.
